Engineering graduates of The College of New Jersey are among the best and brightest in the state and nation, and proceed to become corporate and community leaders. They receive excellent academic preparation while consistently demonstrating strong work ethics and leadership skills. Rankings in publications such as the US News & World Report, Barron's Guide, the Princeton Review and Business Week recognize the competitiveness of our students and programs.

Some highlights of TCNJ's engineering program:

- A selection of majors from Biomedical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Computer Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Engineering Science Specializations in Engineering Management and Policy & Society.
- Over 80% passage rate of the Fundamentals of Engineering examination, surpassing the state and national passage rate.
- The student population in engineering is diverse. Approximately 25% are women (one of the highest in the nation) and 17% are African-American, Hispanic, or Native American. Our students enter with highly competitive SAT scores and class ranks. Although a co-op program is not required, over 70% of our students obtain summer internships, research experiences or part-time engineering-related jobs; and
- Consistently receives accreditation from the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET.
